TODAY IN HISTORY

The boundary between Maryland and Pennsylvania, the Mason-Dixon line, was agreed upon in 1767. In 1732 the proprietary governor of Maryland, Charles Calvert, 5th Baron Baltimore, signed a provisional agreement with William Penn's sons, which drew a line between Maryland and Pennsylvania. Beginning in the mid-1730s, violence erupted between settlers claiming various loyalties to Maryland and Pennsylvania. The border conflict would be known as Cresap's War. The issue remained unresolved until the Crown intervened in 1760, ordering Frederick Calvert to accept the 1732 agreement. The Pennsylvania–Maryland border was defined as the line of latitude 15 miles south of the southernmost house in Philadelphia. As part of the settlement, the Penns and Calverts commissioned the English team of Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon to survey the newly established boundaries. After Pennsylvania abolished slavery in 1781, the western part of this line and the Ohio River became a border between slave and free states, although Delaware retained slavery until the Thirteenth Amendment was ratified in 1865.

"Quote of the Day..."

There are two ways of spreading light: to be the candle or the mirror that reflects it.

WORK HARD BE KIND

This year the focus of our anti bullying meetings and the heart of our community is encapsulated in a simple statement. Work Hard Be Kind.

Although it the statement is simple it an be alluding. Here are some ways to live this. Really look at people in the eyes when they are talking. Pass people with a smile. Read your teachers' directions and then try and surpass the expectation by kicking it up a notch. Hold doors for people. If you have mastered a concept in class be a leader and help others who are still learning.
