Today in History

The Mayflower starts her voyage to North America in 1620. The Mayflower was the ship that in 1620 transported 102 English Pilgrims, including a core group of Separatists, to New England. Their story is one of travail and survival in a harsh New World environment. The voyage is one of the most famous in early American colonial history, and the Mayflower Compact is cited as influential in the establishment of democracy and self-government in British North America.
